TOUCH THE PAST AND ENGAGE THE FUTURE – Sept. 2015 Newsletter

By Ann Rydalch, Chair
Bonneville County Heritage Association (BCHA)

Welcome to each of you reading this newsletter. Let me encourage all of you to join with us in our monthly BCHA board meetings. These meetings are held the fourth Monday of each month, 11:30 am, at Rusios on 17th St., where we discuss and plan for our activities. I want to also encourage you to become a member of BCHA for only $10 per year. The membership money is used towards our activities and our student contests. You can go on our website and join with us.

We've had a busy year to date. BCHA sponsored our first Idaho Day celebration. "The Making of Idaho and Bonneville County", was held Wednesday, March 4, 2015 at 7 p.m., at the Colonial Theater in Idaho Falls. This annual celebration happened because of legislation passed by Representative Linden Bateman establishing March 4 as Idaho Day with celebrations throughout Idaho.

This 2015 program included narrators Stephen Yates and Kelly Beckstead, telling the story of how Idaho was formed and then into a little of the history of how Bonneville County has contributed to the making of Idaho. Entertainment, during the narration, included a special choir of elementary students from School Dist. #91 singing "Here We Have Idaho" and was coordinated by Dist. #91 Music Specialist, Jennifer Korenke-Sargent. Rob Farnam sang "How Great Thou Art", and Miss Pre-Teen Idaho, Ashlyn Allen, sang "God Bless the USA". The presentation of the colors was by the Idaho Falls Fire Department Pipes and Drums with the Bonneville County Sheriff's Department providing the Color Guard. The Idaho Old Time Fiddlers provided the prelude and postlude entertainment.

Another highlight of this event was the winners of the student contests. BCHA is working hard to encourage young people to be interested in their heritage by sponsoring programs specifically for them, such as the student contests. Todd Brown, Dist. #91 Curriculum Coordinator and BCHA board member chairs the student contest program and announced the winners of the student contests and giving cash prizes, with several of those winners giving their presentations during the Idaho Day event.

We are already working on Idaho Day 2016. The theme for this event will be "Idaho Heroes" and will feature stories, music, and entertainment pertaining to men and women who left a legacy in Idaho and Bonneville County.

Our next big activity was the building of a float for our July 4 parade. All of this was done under the direction of our board member, RoseMarie Peterson, with financial help coming from Richard Groberg. The theme of our float was "If These Walls Could Talk". This theme leads up to our next activity which is our annual Treasures Tour.

This tour, being chaired by board member Davidjohn Stosich, "Historic Structures in Bonneville County", will be held Saturday, Sept. 12, 2015 beginning at 10 am to 4 pm, and will begin at the Presbyterian Church and then proceed to the O. E. Bell building where Roy Reynolds has agreed to provide narrative about his paintings of historic Idaho Falls which are featured in the O. E. Bell Building. A program guide will be available with information about other "Historic Structures" so that people can continue with their self-guided tour of the other structures in our county. Visit our website, www.bonnevilleheritage.org and join with us on this journey.

By Ann Rydalch, Chair
Bonneville County Heritage Association

The Bonneville County Heritage Association (BCHA) had their first float entry in the July 4th Idaho Falls Parade this year. The theme was, "If these walls could talk." This was to promote the upcoming Bonneville County Treasures Tour on Saturday, September 12, 2015. This tour will feature some of the historic structures in the county. Can you imagine the stories that these historic structures have experienced in their existence? It would be so interesting if we could know of all that has happened within their walls.

The float honored the 150th Birthday of Idaho Falls with presents, a Birthday card, and Birthday balloons. The float featured four large photos of historic buildings (G. G. Wright Home built in 1909 in Idaho Falls; William F. Owen Home built in the 1890s in Ammon; the Lincoln School Building built in 1904; and the Iona Merchantile built in 1897). There were two young women and two BCHA Board members holding the photos. The float was decorated in a patriotic theme and colors. The parade attendees showed great interest and some took pictures of the float while others applauded, spoke thanks, and praised the BCHA and for what we do and what we promote. The Parade Committee Chair was very pleased with the reception and recognition that our first float received.

All aboard for the annual Heritage Tour of County Treasures!

This year we will visit historic homes and other structures, submitted by members and friends of Bonneville County Heritage Association in response to our search for some of the oldest surviving buildings in the county. Schedule the date for Saturday, September 12 beginning at 10 a.m. Bring your family and friends.

1. We will meet at the First Presbyterian Church, 325 Elm Street. Linden Bateman will tell us of its history. We will be given a map and illustrated handout for the self-guided tour.
2. Then we will walk to the O.E. Bell Building, where artist Roy Reynolds will talk about his paintings of old Idaho Falls, displayed in the halls of the former Jr. High School renovated by Bill Rigby. These halls are filled with many student memories.
3. Just across the street, 315 Walnut, is a well-kept pioneer home owned by Katherine Vlassek, and open for our visit.
4. From there we will drive to the new Iona Historical Museum (5293 East Rockwood). Formerly a tithing house built in 1895 for the Bingham LDS Stake, it now houses Iona pioneer memorabilia. Notice the beautiful unfinished sculpture by Davidjohn Stosich portraying the Mormon pioneer leaders. Historic Bonneville County books by Mary Jane Fritzen and BCHA members will be on sale to benefit the museum.
5. Close by, the Stanger Memorial Building (3670 No. Main Steet), a renovated pioneer church and school, built in 1887, is now home to the Bonneville Art Association. A guide will show its functional interior.
6. Drive 2 miles on North Yellowstone Highway to #8487, a pioneer home and granary built in 1901-1903. It has been home to four generations, including Richard and Catherine Barton, the present owners, who will show us about.

The next three buildings are in New Sweden.

7. The New Sweden Irrigation District (2350 W. 1700 South), the first formed in the Idaho, is a quick stop, where we may see an old scraper, by which the early canals were built. Although closed on Saturdays, the office is open weekdays and displays historic photos of how irrigation was developed. The adjoining white house was actually built in 1891-94 as Great Western Canal Company headquarters and residence for the manager.
8. A beautifully remodeled and decorated pioneer home, 4967 W. 33rd South, was originally built in 1905 by homesteader Charles Anderson, whose grandson Lowell C Jensen became its longtime owner. Present owners, Paul and Evelyne Dixon, bought the home in 1992, and Evelyne Dixon will show us her home and grounds.
9. Sealander Park has new owners, N. Brad and Rebecca Adams, who welcome you to see their old homes and then enjoy the park developed by Clause and Edith Sealander of Swedish heritage.

Nancy Moir, Davidjohn Stosich, Susan Mardis, Mary Jane Fritzen and others helped plan the search and tour. To learn more and to download copies of the illustrated guide and map by David Nipper, go to www.bonnevilleheritage.org.

Bonneville County Heritage Association has a lot of fun projects planned in the future. Get involved in our history. The Membership Invitation below lists our plans. It's proving to be an exciting year!

BCHA has been designated as a not-for profit 501 C3 tax-exempt organization by the IRS. We are planning great things for 2015: A student program for Districts 91 and 93 for grades 4 through 12 will be initiated and BCHA will host the first "Idaho Day" celebration on March 4, 2015, at the Colonial Theatre in Idaho Falls. There will be celebrations throughout Idaho because of the legislation passed by Representative Linden Bateman creating the Idaho Day. In addition, we are engaged in locating the oldest home and building in Bonneville County. The oldest home and building will be featured in our Centennial Treasures Tour on September 12, 2015. We are also making plans to have a great event that will give the history of the stagecoach era in our county and it will be entitled, "Dusty Roads."

We would really appreciate your support by becoming a member. You can assist the BCHA to enlarge the student program and provide events so everyone can learn and enjoy the history of this great Bonneville County where we have the privilege of living and the lasting legacy we want to share.

Please make your check payable to BCHA and mail to: RoseMarie Peterson, 1670 Sviskon Way, Idaho Falls, ID 83402. You may also call RoseMarie (529-0536) if you have any questions. Be sure to visit our web page at www.bonnevilleheritage.org.

Help us learn about our past as we prepare for our future. Thank you so much!

BCHA – WHY BECOME A MEMBER

Website: www.bonnevilleheritage.org

The Bonneville County Heritage Association (BCHA) began in 2004 when Mary Jane Fritzen gathered a few volunteers, including County Commissioner Dave Radford, and organized the BCHA to begin making plans to commemorate the County Centennial of February 7, 1911. The year-long Centennial celebration ended in November of 2011.

Now, it is our plan to have BCHA continue its voluntary efforts to promote county history and its people. We need your help to do this.

- Your commitment to join BCHA will ensure promotion of the county history and its people for generations to come.
- Members will receive special invitations to BCHA events.
- Members will receive the BCHA newsletter.
- Members will receive special invitations to tours of the County Treasures developed during the Centennial celebration.
- Members will have the opportunity to suggest promotion of specific county heritage projects, its people and its published books.
- Members will help ensure youth involvement.
- Members may serve on committees or as officers.
